Thank you for the call yesterday. The principles are really struggling with the public campaign against the marina. Not being developers they are not used to the fact that they and the development are going to be attacked by the opposition. Chaliere almost started crying when I told her that we had to withdraw and resubmit. I know it is entirely semantics, but our call yesterday made her feel a lot better about it.

Also they would have been much better never getting that grant, I don't know how it happened, even the $300,000 they are getting is not worth what they going through. The grant is what really got Coral Bay Community Council up in arms.

That being said, I know the land drawings are not going to be legible at 8.5x11, which drawings are you going to need at that size and I can start working on them to send in with the new package. I will also make sure the bed and bank on the upland area drainage are clearly delineated.
